AirCommerce Park Industrial Complex Designated a “Right Now” Site

Selection Recognizes the Advantages Offered By Virginia’s New Airport Industrial Center

Newport News, VA, April 20, 2007 - AirCommerce Park, the new industrial development located on Newport News/ Williamsburg International Airport, has been selected as a “Right Now” site by the Virginia Economic Development Partnership. The “Right Now” designation is given to select industrial complexes that offer “shovel-ready” building sites, along with expedited processing of all tenant applications and permits.

This “fast track” system allows AirCommerce Park tenants to save significant time and money when constructing facilities.

Jim Smith, Executive Director of the Peninsula Airport Commission (PAC), said:

“We are pleased that our new AirCommerce Park complex has been selected as a “Right Now” site. This designation recognizes the planning that has gone into the development and our dedication to making AirCommerce Park one of America’s best airport industrial centers.” (more)

Phase I of AirCommerce Park offers over 30 acres of clear-and-level building sites adjoining a 25-acre aircraft parking apron designed to accommodate heavy widebody aircraft. The complex fronts the airport's 8000 foot all-weather runway, and offers easy access to Interstate highways and Virginia's deep-water ports. The location at the midpoint of the US Atlantic Coast means that 2/3 of the US population and seven of America's ten largest metropolitan areas are within 750 miles of AirCommerce Park.

Phase II of the development will add another 200 acres of industrial property to AirCommerce Park, and will be built based on customer demand.

AirCommerce Park is located in a Virginia Enterprise Zone, allowing qualified tenant companies access to special financial incentives.
